Project: using Doppler maps of solar surface velocities to predict the emergence of active regions in solar surface

Pipeline for quiet Sun calibration External database with various data products Activate transfer, Endpoint when new service data Time series of available activity level of solar surface Local database Growing data product, in Allas which contains good bc enough statistical Time series of finformation on certain od mode mass quantities certain quantities certain quantities Supercom When new data puter available, move data to supercomputer, and run analysis